

From the Coll de Sóller to the Teix

This tour takes you into the hunting grounds of archduke Ludwig Salvator and is a fine walk through the mountains above Deia and Valldemossa. During your walk, the ancient life is present everywhere, with snow houses and charcoal burner's places on the way. From the Teix, you will have a perfect view to the central parts of the Tramuntana mountain range.

Directions:

Just two turns below the Coll de Sóller a road leads from the C711 at KM 23 to the bottling plant of Font d'Es Teix. Cross the premises on the road until you see a farm house on your right. You should have a green metal gate to your left now with a steep unpaved road starting from there. Follow that road on something like a dozen serpentines until you reach the hunting lodge, the Casetes del Rei Jaume (776m). Walk through the gate and follow the road to the right through the forest along charcoal burner's huts. When you leave the forest finally, it is just a short walk until you notice a small fountain right at the side of the road: the Font de (950m). Follow the rising trail on the left which leads you away from the road and after some minutes and a little you'll be standing on top of the Teix, marked pole.

Notes:

From the Font de Sa Serp, two trails lead towards Deia and Valldemossa respectively. This way, this tour can easily be extended. Consult a guide or get you good map to find these trails. If you follow the mountain range in the north of the Teix NE, it will eventually take you back to the valley of Sóller. Be aware that walking time is extended very much if you use any of these alternatives.
